Good Morning High School Parents and Students:

Welcome to the new school year!

As we get ready to return to school two weeks from today, I must tell you that I am genuinely excited about this school year. Working with high school students is one of my favorite things to do and brings me joy.

As school starts you will probably have many questions. There are a variety of places to find answers, but the best place to find answers is on our website at <https://www.santiamchristian.org/sc-family/parents-home/>. This will include bell schedules, calendars, forms, service hour information, etc.

The FACTS family portal is also useful, and under Resource Documents is where you will find the link to the high school student handbook. It is organized as a Google document and is searchable to help quickly find the material you are looking for. The portal is also where you can access student grades, and homework, order lunches, and complete other tasks.

If you need help in other areas, the best way to get in touch with me is through email at villersl@santiam.org. Even if you want to set up a phone call, please email me first. I check my email regularly and respond quickly.

Thank you for allowing me the privilege of partnering with you in the Christian development and education of your child. We are going to have a great year!

Sincerely,

Dr. Lance Villers, Ed. D.
